

STIB-MIVB is qualified as responsible for personal data processing only for the processing of data collected by STIB/MIVB itself (see below).

What purposes?

- Creating user profiles;
- Providing a platform allowing users to access, share and exchange data and datasets;
- Providing APIs for access to datasets;
- Monitoring the application of the present Terms of Use and of any legitimate and/or illegitimate use of the information, which also includes all measures to avoid fraud;
- Compiling statistics on attendance/downloads.

What data?

This data processing concerns following data regarding users of services related to open data:

- First name
- Name
- Email address
- Encrypted password
- IP address
- Other professional data
- Company that employs you
- Country
- Type of access granted

What justifications?

The processing of these data is based on the execution of the licence agreement for use of the Open Data platform concluded between yourself and STIB-MIVB, as well as on STIB-MIVB's legitimate interest in monitoring the application of the conditions for license reuse in order to prevent fraud and compile statistics.

What is the origin of the data?

You provide these data when you register on the Open Data platform.

Are these data passed on to third parties?

Our Open Data platform is hosted by a service provider, who, in this capacity, is managing the data you provide us.

What is the retention period?

The data are kept during a period of maximum 1 year.